

Master of Arts in Teaching

Rigorous academic and clinical experiences for future classroom leaders to build the professional knowledge and skills needed to benefit all students

At A Glance

Degree Type: Master of Arts in Teaching (M.A.T.)

Program Durations: 12-14 Months

Application Deadline for Summer 2022: February 8, 2022

The year-long Master of Arts in Teaching (MAT) program, which includes a two-semester residency in a public school with an experienced classroom teacher, prepares students for an initial teaching licensure in:

- Elementary Education
- Middle Grades Education
- Secondary Education in English, Mathematics, Science, or Social Studies
- Special Education
- K-12 English as a Second Language

Master of Arts in Teaching

Built on research-based best practices, the MAT program provides early and extensive clinical experience — opportunities to integrate theory and practice, demonstrate skills in a structured and supportive environment, and support equity efforts in schools.

Graduates leave the program as the most effective educators in the state and beyond. A study by the Education Policy Initiative at Carolina found that having a UNC MAT graduate in the classroom was like providing additional instruction time, especially for economically disadvantaged and minority students, and students at struggling schools — highlighting our commitment to social justice in serving marginalized and underserved populations.

Before enrolling, students can apply for the North Carolina Teaching Fellows Program; Carolina is one of five schools to offer the program.

Zarett Ramirez '21
Third Grade Teacher
Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools

How will you propel the world?

To learn more about the Master of Arts in Teaching or to learn more about applying, email ed@unc.edu.

Visit ed.unc.edu/mat

PROPEL
the WORLD